

Succession Planning Policy

Introduction

The Survive and Save Club recognises the need to be able to find people with the enthusiasm and commitment to be able fill key roles within the Club. One specific aspect of effective workforce development planning is the practice of "Succession Planning", which the club endeavours to embrace to ensure the smooth running of the Club.

What is succession planning

Succession planning can be defined by identifying, potential committee members and volunteers to fill key positions as they arise. It is hoped that this practice can help the Club continually encourage and identify people willing to volunteer and support the club to enable it run efficiently and effectively.

How will the club approach succession planning

Succession planning will only be effective if the current Committee and volunteer workforce are actively striving to continually recruit further volunteers to support them in their roles, therefore ensuring continuity of their role within the club should the following arise:- :

- Personal Work/Life Balance
- Pending retirements
- Sickness absence
- Ongoing vacant posts

As vacancies arise thought should be given as to where, through further support, training and development, existing members may be identified for posts and roles as they arise in the future. Through this approach the Club can endeavour to prepare for future changes in the volunteer workforce by developing existing members, who show an interest in possible careers (eg, a member may wish to become involved in poolside teaching on a voluntary basis or become an official) and roles within swimming, to a position where they may be able to be considered for future Club and professional swimming positions.

How will the club take succession planning forward

The Club will organise an ongoing annual programme of training and development activities against specific roles, which will provide ongoing opportunities for all members who wish to consider development within the Club the opportunity to enhance their skills

Consideration in relation to costs will however need to be a factor, due to limited budgets within the Club.

Where possible, development and training should be through the Local Borough and ASA accredited training courses as well as other opportunities such as "on the job" training, mentoring and secondments.

Fairness and transparency

Where a role or position arises, it is important that the process is fair, open and transparent.

Record keeping

Details of workforce roles, training and development will be held and managed by the Club Secretary in conjunction with the Workforce Co-ordinator and Welfare Officer to ensure all relevant qualifications, CPDs and DBSs held are recorded.
